

FNOL Pulmonary Fibrosis Dataset 2022

Description:

The dataset enrolled in total 281 patients. All the patients were infected by COVID-19 disease with lung involvement of different severity. Of these, 135 patients were recommended corticotherapy and 146 patients were not recommended corticotherapy. Detailed description of the dataset is the paper which introduced the dataset [Link to paper].

Size:

281 subjects divided into two subgroups, 146 were recommended corticotherapy, 146 patients were not recommended corticotherapy

Platform:

Platform independent

General Information:

readme.pdf	- this document, general information
FNOL_PulFib2022_train.xlsx	- dataset containing train dataset
FNOL_PulFib2022_test.xlsx	- dataset containing train dataset
FNOL_PulFib2022_desc.pdf	- detailed description of attributes in the dataset

License:

Attribution 3.0 Unported (CC BY 3.0), <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/3.0/>

Citation:

Text (ISO 690): MYSKA, Vojtech, et al. Artificial-Intelligence-Driven Algorithms for Predicting Response to Corticosteroid Treatment in Patients with Post-Acute COVID-19. Diagnostics, 2023, 13.10: 1755.

Contacts:

Brno University of Technology, assoc. Prof. Radim Burget, burgetm@vutbr.cz

Faculty Hospital of Olomouc, Mgr. Michal Stybnar, michal.stybnar@fnol.cz

Acknowledgment:

Supported by Czech Health Research Council grant NU22-A-105, and in part by IGA_LF_2023_010, MH_CZ-DRO (FNOL,_00098892).